TRADE SALE OF BOOTS AND SHOES
Semi-annual Auction in New York More Satisfactory Than Its Predecessor.
(Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 28, 1885. The semi-annual trade sale of boots and shoes, which was begun at the auction rooms of Wilmerding, Morris & Mitchell, Nos. 64 and 66 White street, Tuesday morning, was concluded yesterday.
This is the third sale of the kind which has been held in this city, and was larger than either of those which had preceded it in the quantity of goods disposed of, and more satisfactory, owing to the better prices realized.
The sale was peremptory, and every lot was sold to the highest bidder without reserve. The catalogue comprised more than 5000 cases of men's boys', youths', women's, misses' and children's boots and shoes. The goods offered were all of fresh stock of the best known New England, New Jersey and New York state manufacturers, of the prevailing styles and best materials.
Among the manufacturers whose goods were represented in the catalogue were A. & T. Batchelder of Lynn and Bent Bros. of Cohasset, Mass.
The stock consisted to a great extent of specially selected goods and styles of manufactured for the shoe department of the large retail dry goods houses. This was particularly the case as to the women's, misses' and children's shoes. The consignment from Bent Bros. included Goodyear welt and hand-sewed patent leather, colored calf and kangaroo shoes, manufactured especially for the fine retail trade.
The announcement of the sale attracted a great deal of attention and excited much interest in the trade. When the sale opened on Tuesday morning there was present in the auction room a full representation of jobbers and retail dealers of this city and neighborhood, and the representatives of the South and Southwest.
The buying was spirited, especially for the finer grades of shoes. As has been noticed in recent auction sales in other lines of goods, while the lower grades brought fair prices, excellent prices were realized for the higher grades.
The interest in the sale was kept up during the two days, so that when it closed at 6 o'clock last evening there were almost as many buyers present as when it opened Tuesday morning.
A number of buyers were present representing many other out of town houses, one buyer often purchasing for half a dozen firms, dividing his purchases. The total amount realized was estimated last evening at between $75,000 and $80,000.

BOSTON VA. GEORGETOWN.
Selection of the Men Who Will Champion the Local College in Debate.
As the date on which Boston College is to contest in joint debate with Georgetown University gradually approaches, the interest of the students in this affair is becoming more intense. Not only will this be the initial step of Boston College in intercollegiate debate, but also Boston College is to contend with one of the most prominent colleges in the country.
It was first anticipated that three of the men who participated in the prize debate would be selected, but further developments have lent a different aspect to things; for, in the announcement of the names of the men yesterday it was shown that only one of the four prize debaters was selected—John J. Kirby, '90, who was the successful speaker on that evening. The other two men, Michael J. Scanlan, '95, and Michael Spaine, '97, although they did not appear on the prize debate, have, however, figured prominently in debating circles at the college.
One thing which is especially noticeable is the fact that the class of '95 has in the last two prize debates been especially well represented, which fact has also been shown in the selection of intercollegiate debaters. Of the four speakers in the prize debate of '94, William Sullivan, '96, and Martin A. Foley, '96, appeared, at the prize debate on Thursday evening last, '96 was represented by Mr. William St. C. Healey sent by Mr. William Kirby, who also succeeded in winning the prize; and now that the intercollegiate debaters have been selected this class has been even more fortunate inasmuch as two of the three speakers, Messrs. Kirby and Scanlan, are members of the class. The question which will be the subject of the debate was selected yesterday, and submitted to the Georgetown authorities, so that they can determine the order of speakers will be as follows: Michael J. Scanlan, '95, first; Michael J. Spaine, '95, second, and John J. Kirby, '95, third.

WILL JOIN THE NEW KNIGHTS.
Nine-Tenths of Pittsburg Assembly, K. L., Vote to Withdraw.
PITTSBURG, Pa., Feb. 28, 1885. Nine-tenths of the members of District Assembly No. 3, K. of L., last night, voted to join the new independent order of knights, withdrawing from Master Workman Sovereign's organization. The "Clear Makers' Union, the Typographical Union and the teamsters' vote for aid and assistance rendered by the sisters to the defendant in preparing a contest of the will of the late Caroline M. Richardson of this city.

The plaintiffs were for 20 years the servants of Mrs. Richardson, who died Oct. 31, 1883, leaving more than $300,000. The defendant is a marchioness residing at Desio, in the kingdom of Italy.
Her mother, Mrs. Emily Merriam, who lived in Italy at the time of Mrs. Richardson's death, was a first cousin of the latter, and was given only $1000 by the will.
Mrs. Merriam felt that she had been disinherited by undue influence on the part of somebody, and so she sent her daughter to this country to take steps to assert her rights to a share in the property of her cousin.
Eminent counsel were retained, and on Oct. 16, 1884, the plaintiff claimed that they were employed by the defendant to render their assistance, and were to receive $7500 and expenses from the defendant.
They alleged that they gave up their time and efforts to the defendant, and from Jan. 3, 1889, to April 21, 1890, the cause of the expenses, and expended $400 for the expenses.
On April 16, 1890, the cause of the defendant was successful, for a settlement of the will contest was made, by which she was paid $30,000 and the fees and expenses of her counsel.
The Scotchman demanded the sum to which they said was paid to them, but it was not paid.
They thereupon filed this suit. Mrs. Richardson lived on Boylston street, W. P. Hale, for plaintiffs; T. J. Garigan and C. J. Sampson for defendant.
The defendant is the wife of Marquis Carcano of Italy; that she did not make the claim that she did not make with the plaintiff, she contended that their services were not worth such a sum. She thought that they were entitled to no more than $2000.
Questions answered by the jury upon various elements of the case are as follows:
What were the services of the plaintiff reasonably worth? Answer—$1000.
What sums of money have the plaintiff expended in traveling expenses? Answer—$35.
What is the reasonable sum for board of the defendant Carcano? Answer—$5.
Did the defendant, as agent or attorney for her mother, enter into a contract with the plaintiffs to pay $7500 for their services?
"Did Caroline M. Corcano, as agent or attorney for her mother, have the power and authority to pay the plaintiffs $7500 for their services?"
No.

JOSEPH CONNELL DEAD.
Before the suit was brought Mrs. Emmet Merriam, the mother of the defendant, died, and this action was brought against the marchioness as executrix of her will.
The defendant will ask for a new trial.

Last evening Mr. Bisell said that he had resigned because his professional work demanded his attention, and he felt that he could no longer remain away from it. The business of the department, he stated, was in good condition, and its transfer to his successor could be made without affecting the public service. He also said that he had found the work of his office agreeable, notwithstanding its onerousness, and he left the department with regret.

Until further notice all additions to the short list in this session will be taken from the special trial list.

REFNS - In Ja
Soborns, 78:

At 11:15 a. m. on Friday, May 1, 1935, the following persons were present at the funeral of Mrs. Mary Ann (Dore) Danbury (Dore):

land insists that her currency is monometallic in its character, having gold as its basis; and her chancellor of the exchequer states that he has no reason for thinking that Germany intends to vary her attitude, which in this respect is substantially like that of England. Under such circumstances it does not seem to us that this country can hope to gain anything by a conference if the intention of those who represent the United States is to bring about, through international co-operation, a bimetallic currency system.

There are, no doubt, men in England who are quite as earnest in their belief in the desirability and even necessity of rehabilitating silver as Senators Jones and Wolcott, or Representative Bland, and those in Germany who represent the Agrarian faction in politics are of much the same way of thinking. But these friends of silver are in a decided minority, and are not likely to make their influence felt in shaping the monetary policy either of England or Germany. It may be of advantage to the owners of silver mines in the United States and those incidentally, but indirectly, interested in the successful operations of these properties, to have the market value of silver bullion advanced, but it does not seem to us that an agreement on the part of the leading nations of the world to make an annual purchase of silver would assist in any special degree in improving the currency system of this country.

We have already entered into this role, and have purchased and laid aside an immense and useless quantity of this white metal, and an agreement which compelled us to resume these purchases, even if other nations took the same course, would hardly be likely to strengthen our currency system. If all of the great commercial nations of the world were willing to accept the bimetallic theory, and in some manner endeavor to maintain a ratio of values between the two metals, we might go into it, knowing that whatever the outcome was we should be no worse off than others. But such an arrangement is, as we have pointed out, an impossible one, and as at the last analysis it is found that only a few thousand people are really interested in silver mines, it does not seem possible that the proposed conference can attain results that will in any way satisfy American bimetalists, nor do we see how such a conference will be in any degree satisfactory to those in this country who believe that we should cut ourselves free from all entangling alliances with silver as quickly as possible, and definitely establish our currency upon a gold basis.

DIVORCES IN SOUTH DAKOTA.
When South Dakota became a state, its Legislature yielded to the moral sentiment of the people and put an end to the reign of the divorce lawyer. A resi-ing which were superior to those of any other candidate. It is also right to say that upon a closer knowledge of Mrs. Fildes's qualifications for this position it was evident that she would have filled the place to the growing satisfaction of the public, but she had not that trained preparation for it which seemed to be necessary in the present position of the primary schools, and it was a graceful act for her to propose the election of Miss Arnold and thus avoid the deadlock and delay which seemed to be inevitable if she remained in the field. It is also true that her position on the school board prevented her legal election to the position which her friends desired her to fill. When personal feeling had subsided and the merits of Miss Arnold were better known, there seemed to be but one opinion, and that was to secure her services at all hazards. A Massachusetts woman, trained in our own schools, in the prime of life, and for several years exercising almost a supremacy over the primary schools in one of the most growing cities of the West, she will come to Boston with an experience and trained capacity which will shortly be applied to the direction and development of the primary schools. They have long needed a better oversight than they have received, and one of the special problems with which Miss Arnold will have to deal will be the adjustment of the kindergarten to the primary school so that the course of instruction may be continuous and orderly between the two. The kindergartens have brought a fresh and important element into our school system, but a great many of our primary teachers have not been educated to it, and it needs a person of administrative ability and quick intuitions to bring them into harmonious co-operation with the new work. Miss Arnold comes to us with a national reputation and will be received not only by her associate supervisors, but by the whole teaching force of Boston with sympathy and appreciation. For once Boston has secured, in the opinion of many, the best person to be found for a very responsible position. It is doubtful whether Miss Arnold, during the remainder of the school year, can do much more than look over the field and mark out her course for the future, but we look to her for an uplifting movement in our primary schools which will be felt throughout our entire system of education.

THE CANADIAN PACIFIC.

The passing of the dividend on the Canadian Pacific railroad serves to recall the history of this corporation, whose property is practically a gift to the stockholders from the Canadian government. It was chartered in 1881 and it was then made the recipient of $25,000,000 in the shape of a subsidy, 25,000,000 acres of land and 713 miles of railroad which had been built by the Dominion government at an expense of $35,000,000.

was disposed to vote in its favor. The avalanche of letters, protests, telegrams that at once descended on the Senate changed its attitude within forty-eight hours, so that very few senators found courage to lift their voice against Sunday closing. If the Senate could be treated to as emphatic a statement as that of what the people think of the antiquated and cumbersome methods of procedure, we should hear the last of any difficulty about the amendment of the rules.

THE MIDDLESEX ELECTION.

The election in the 2d Middlesex district makes it evident that A. P. A-ism is not popular in the Republican party. In Watertown, the home of the two candidates, Dr. Niles and Mr. Ensign, the latter obtained a large majority of the vote cast, and if the voters in Waltham had shown the same interest in suppressing this faction in the Republican party that was indicated by their associates in the other cities and towns, Dr. Niles would unquestionably have been defeated. But apparently in Waltham—that is, apparently by the vote—A. P. A-ism has its stronghold, though there is this to be said, that in a by-election the influences which an association of this kind can bring to bear at the polls are more potent than it would be likely to command at the time of a regular election. Just as the A. P. A. can carry caucuses by arranging that its members shall be on hand at the time that a caucus is held, while other citizens are apt to be indifferent to their political duties, so at a by-election, when the interest involved is slight, those who represent organized effort, as the members of the A. P. A. do, have a distinct advantage over their unorganized fellow-citizens.

A COSTLY DELUSION.

It obviously does not lie with us to enter serious complaint against the action of Germany or France in prohibiting the introduction of American cattle. Whatever the pretended cause for such prohibition may be, it rests at bottom on the wish of the governments of those countries to protect their farmers from American competition. We can raise and send cattle to Europe under conditions that make our competition with the cattle raisers of Europe a very serious matter, and although the governments of France and Germany may not care to let the residents in the cities and towns know that they are forcing up the price of meat for them by this prohibition, and hence prefer to base it upon grounds of health, it is none the less a fact that but for this notion that foreign producers are enemies who should be legislated against, our cattle would find a ready market in all of the countries of western Europe. But this delusion is one for the large extension of which we Americans are mainly responsible.

Science for February. The point of the discovery is that part of a skull, a molar tooth and a thigh bone, found in the later tertiary strata, and belonging to a man-like ape, are believed to represent a new genus between the highest order of apes and men. In this animal the skull is two-thirds the average of that of man, and the thigh bone is equal in size to that of man, and is adapted for walking upright. Prof. Marsh believes that Dr. Dubois has discovered a new pre-historic form, which, in size of brain power and erect posture, is a nearer approach to man on the part of an animal than has hitherto been found. If this discovery shall turn out to mean all that Prof. Marsh thinks that it involves, it may prove to be the "missing link" between the anthropoid ape and man which naturalists have believed to exist, but have not heretofore found.

MR. BALFOUR'S BOOK.

Hon. Arthur J. Balfour, who is in some respects the leader of the Conservative party in England at the present time, has just published a book on "The Foundations of Belief," to which the London Times devotes nearly three columns and pronounces "one of the chief contributions to philosophy made for many years in England." It is a philosophical treatise, in which Mr. Balfour ventures out of the range of theology and attempts to show that there is a basis in naturalism for the fundamental beliefs of men. The arguments of Hume against Paley are here restated, with a difference. Mr. Balfour attempts to show that the conclusions of science are not to be overthrown in the higher beliefs, and his book is likely to mark an epoch in the higher thinking in England. It is remarkable that the great political leaders in England should be men, like Mr. Gladstone and Mr. Balfour, who are also scholars and thinkers along the highest lines of inquiry. Mr. Gladstone has been regarded as the most illustrious statesman of the day who has contributed to letters; but Mr. Balfour, in his second contribution to philosophical thought, goes far beyond Mr. Gladstone in dealing with the deeper questions of life.

The fame of the Gould-Castellane alliance has reached France, and it has prompted the Paris newspapers to inquire into the antecedents of the young man in the case. From which it appears that he is quite extraordinary for a fin de siècle nobleman, in that no feminine scandal has ever been connected with his name; that he is neither a gambler at the many circles of Paris nor at the race tracks, and that he has occupied his time with the manliest of sports in place of the usual dissipation of his colleagues. He is a good shot, good horseman and remarkably popular among his associates, although his rather feminine appearance has given him the familiar sobriquet among

And so there is to be no national appropriation to assist in the work of suppressing the gypsy moth in Massachusetts. It was too much to expect that it would be otherwise.

The national appropriations for the coming year are going to round the $500,000,000 mark. That rate for two years would give us still another billion dollar Congress.

Springer Bros., corner of Washington and Bedford streets, said: "We have a high opinion of The Boston Herald as an advertising medium. It reaches a very excellent class of trade."

Mr. Newcomb of the Keep Manufacturing Co., 114 Tremont street, said: "The Boston Herald always receives our first consideration as an advertising medium."

J. C. McCarthy, importer of laces, corner of Tremont and West streets, said: "I am very well pleased with my experience with The Boston Herald. For my business I think it is the best medium in the city."

A. E. Parsons, 348 Boylston street, said: "The Boston Herald is better adapted to reach the class of trade we cater for than any other Boston daily. The results have always been satisfactory."

The E. B. Sears Company, 404 Washington street, said: "The Boston Herald is an especially good medium for advertisers, because the response is immediate. We are sure of returns inside of 24 hours after the advertisement appears in the paper."

Simpson & Co., 39 Temple place, said: "The Boston Herald is a thoroughly good medium, and every advertisement that I have inserted in it has met with an intelligent return. It is as clean a paper as we have in New England."

H. Crine, the furrier at 15 and 16 Avon street, said: "I have been advertising in the Boston Herald for more than a quarter of a century, and find it one of the leading advertising mediums in the state. I know of none better for good results. I can safely say that The Herald has greatly assisted me in establishing my business as it is established. The Herald does not give something for nothing, but gives good value for the money it charges."

Henry M. Burr & Co., 490 Washington street, said: "The Boston Herald is one of the best advertising mediums in Boston. We have always had good results from it."

William H. Brine, 1 and 3 Tremont street, said: "I believe The Boston Herald to be one of the best mediums for advertising in Boston. Its readers are the best class of people in New England, and The Herald's charges for space, circulation considered, are more reasonable than the prices of suburban papers."

Mr. Fernেকে of The Ribbon Store, 5 Temple place, said: "I have been very successful in my advertising in The Boston Herald, which I have tested by mail orders and by special new articles. Advertisements in The Herald are profitable because they reach the best class of people for the retail business—the buyers."

where the clerk identified them as having been in the store. Neither claimed to own the valise, but when it was opened it was found to contain the clothing that had been stolen, and it was readily identified by the clerk.

Capt. Wyman had reason to believe that the couple were professional thieves, so a hack was hired, and the pair brought to headquarters. Both were indignant at being arrested, and claimed to be innocent of the charge against them. They also said they had never been arrested before. But in the case of West, that was soon found to be untrue.

After he had proved a puzzle to the inspectors for some time, Inspector Watts found the man's picture in the Rogues' Gallery. It was taken at Manchester, N. H., 10 years ago, but it was a fairly good likeness, and in the description it was shown that the prisoner had a scar on the right thumb. This was found, and then West admitted that it was his picture, but would say but little about himself.

The picture bore the name of Charles Hart, alias Charles Williams, and at that time he had a smooth face, while now he is the possessor of a heavy mustache.

The woman could not be recognized as a former visitor, although Chief Watts says he is confident she is a professional from New York. They were both taken to Black's and their pictures were taken for the rogues' gallery.

In conversation with Chief Watts, the woman said that she had been rooming with her husband at No. 3 Fayette street. Hardly had she revealed this fact, before Inspector Knox was on his way to the house for the purpose of searching it, to see if any other stolen property could be found.

On entering the room the officer found present a man who answered the description of the one who was with the others early in the morning, and who said his name was Smith. He was placed under arrest, and after the room had been searched was brought to headquarters.

No stolen property was found in the room. Headquarters it was found that Smith was the man wanted, and his photograph was also taken for the gallery. He claims to be the husband of the Murphy woman.

EXCEPTIONS OVERRULED.

Rule of the Lower Court in a Breach of Contract Case Pronounced Correct.

The defendants' exceptions in the case of Joseph H. Cutter vs. Oscar S. Gillette were today overruled by the full bench of the supreme court.

The action was brought to recover damages for the wrongful dismissal of the plaintiff from the defendant's employment as foreman.

On April 28, 1887, the parties made a stipulation that the expenses had been Lady Henry goes to Leeds to meet 80 ladies, the executive committee of the British Women's Temperance Association, of which she is president.

And on the 18th of May, Lady Henry's son attains his majority, an event that will be celebrated with great rejoicings at the country seat of the Somers family, the Priory, near London. By the way, this place, and the whole town of Reigate, were given to Lord Keeper Somers by King William III.

"After all this we shall go to Norway for the summer, returning to America in time for the autumn conventions."

"By the way, I wish The Boston Herald would correct a false statement that has got into the western papers, and says that I have let my home, 'Rest cottage,' permanently, and intend to go abroad. This is not true. My home is my refuge after my work is over. My papers call my polyglot petition cream from a big pan of milk."

"We took for snuffage here in Massachusetts, it by the intellect and culture of your women. It looks as if it were neat and neck between Massachusetts and Maine, which seems on the point of granting it."

"Of course, Miss Gordon goes with us, and we are also taking a Boston girl, Miss Mary Powderly, who has been so faithful a stenographer and has endeavored herself so to us that we are going to have her for special work."

Both Lady Henry Somerset and Miss Willard spoke in the highest terms of Mrs. L. M. N. Stevens of Maine, who has been president for 14 years of the W. C. T. U. there, and in all that time has never had but three votes against her. At the recent convention of the National W. C. T. U. at Cleveland, she was elected to represent Miss Willard during her absence, the new office of vice-president-at-large being created for the purpose.

"And," they added, "she has already shown her efficiency by the unusual skill and wisdom with which she managed affairs at Washington in our absence."

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., Feb. 28, 1888. William Willard, a truckman, pleaded guilty in court this morning to a criminal assault upon Julia Wanger, a Swedish domestic employed by Mrs. S. J. Bart-ram in Black Rock. He was bound over to trial before the superior court.

DORCHESTER DISTRICT.

Seldom has such a crowd gathered within the walls of Grand Army Hall on Park street as was present last evening to witness the presentation of a cantata of "Mother Goose" by the children of the Parkman Street M. E. Church, which followed a sale of fancy articles held during the afternoon, the whole entertainment being given by the Ladies Society of the church, of which Mrs. Laidlow is president. The cantata was produced under the supervision of Mrs. Le Fave, and was most excellently presented by the following children: Carrie Sanford, Mother Goose; and Mary Ross, Amy Le Fave, Arthur Sanford, John Dillon, Harold Reynolds, Jennie Brown, Edith Markham, Edna Dillon, Bertie Nichols, May Northrup, Allen Smith, plianist. Following the cantata an enjoyable entertainment was offered by Mr. George Verry and Mr. Albert Turner, duet, Miss Ada Collier, reader; Miss Sanford, soprano solo; Mrs. Reynolds and Miss Bonhouse, duet.

The third in the course of entertainments at the Marlborough A. E. Church was held last evening. Rev. James J. Ferris delivered an interesting lecture on "The Wandering Jew," or the religion, life and customs of the modern Jews, illustrated by pictures used in their devotions, viz., physiognomies and songs and psalms in Hebrew.

CREDULITIES OF THE TURKS.

The members of the Catholic Union were entertained last evening by a lecture on "Armenian Outrages" by Mr. M. H. Gulesian, a native of Armenia. That portion of the country which owes allegiance to Turkish power, he said, suffered most.

To verify his statements he produced letters from Hitte, Moosh, Nan, Con-stantinople and other towns. These letters have been compiled and will soon be published in New York in refutation of the assertions of Gen. Lew Wallace. A committee was appointed to draught a set of resolutions.

apple sales, chiefly of American origin, are offered for sale which contain a larger or smaller amount of zinc. Of 13 samples it contained zinc. The order further says that the Americans dry their fruit in zinc netting instead of on wooden racks, as in Germany.
Concluding, the mayor's proclamation says: "I, therefore, feel obliged to give strict warning against the sale and eating of American dried apple slices; and give notice to those offering such article for sale that they will be proceeded against in accordance with the imperial law regulating the trade in food and food products."
According to German statistics, there were imported from the United States in 1893 268 tons and in 1894 253 tons of dried apples.

Will Be Sold by the Sheriff.
(Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.)
JACKSONVILLE, Fla., Feb. 23, 1895.
John L. Sullivan remained quietly in his successful, and it is probable that the trunks will be allowed to be sold by the sheriff.

A telegram was received by Manager
Howard from New York, which said that Murphy, Carney and Miss Armstrong, three members of the company, had been arrested on a charge of taking two trunks belonging to him.
The present programme is for Sullivan and his party to leave here today for New York.

NO MORE PAY, NO MORE WORK.
There Will Probably Be a Strike in America
(Special Dispatch to the Boston Herald.)
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Feb. 23, 1895.
A strike will probably begin at the factory of the American Screw Company in this city by next Monday.
There are about 1200 persons employed, and they have been working eight hours a day. President Angell desired them to begin next week on 10 hours, but at the present rate of payment, which met with prompt objection and threat to strike.
President Angell informed a committee that the employees could strike if they choose to do so. He said simply that they might have work, and that it was a matter of indifference to him what action they took.
This did not dampen the ardor of the help, and the strike talk continues.
GREEN'S PLEA OF NO AVAL.
Full Bench Overrules Exceptions Taken in a Liquor Case.
In the case of Commonwealth vs.
George F. Green, the full bench of the supreme court today overruled the defendant's exceptions.
Green was a hotel waiter at the Jefferson House, which is a licensed place.
On Sunday, Oct. 14, 1894, he made a sale of liquor to two policemen. He was convicted in the superior court of making an unlawful sale of liquor. It was claimed on appeal that as he was only a servant, he was not amenable to the law.
The court holds that the defendant is responsible because he has made a sale, however innocently, which the law forbade him to make.
AN "OLEO" CASE DECIDED.
The full bench of the supreme court today overruled the defendant's exceptions in the case of Commonwealth vs.
Sidney S. Kelly.
The defendant was convicted of selling from his grocery store on Washington street oleomargarine, "In imitation of yellow butter."
The court holds that such oleomarga-rine is within the prohibition of chap.
58, sec. 1, of the laws of 1891.

In this manner, says a writer in the Upoluist, they ascertain the preferences of their goods on the market as follows:

stock of electric light companies and to purchase electric light and gas plants. The petition, however, made no appearance, and the hearing was closed.

There was a continued hearing on the petition of the mayor of Cambridge for the establishment of municipal gas and electric light plants.

City Solicitor Pevay and City Engineer Morse of Cambridge addressed the committee in favor of the petition. Everett W. Russell and Everett W. Burdett appeared in opposition to this bill and those which the committee had heard at its last session relating to the purchase by the municipality of private plants.

STATE SHOULD PAY.

Representative Gillingham on the Salaries of Railroad Commissioners.

Chairman Sanford of the railroad commissioners was before the committee on railroads at the State House this forenoon, for the purpose of finding out why a bill had been introduced by Representative Gillingham of Fairhaven to provide that hereafter the salaries and expenses of the railroad commissioners shall be paid by the commonwealth and not by the railroad companies.

Mr. Sanford said he was present because he would like to know if as a reason for the bill, it was to be urged that the commissioners are unduly influenced by the railroad companies.

Mr. Gillingham disclaimed any intention of making such an accusation, and said his only object in putting in the bill is to make the state pay the salaries, etc., directly, as they pay the salaries of other state officials. He did not, however, propose to release the taxes which are now paid by the companies; they will still continue to indirectly pay the expenses of the commission.

It was suggested by J. H. Benton, Jr., counsel for the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company, that the passage of the bill would result in leaving no provision in law paying the expenses of the commission, and Chairman Wellman of the committee said he thought this was true.

Mr. Gillingham said he didn't intend any such thing as that, and would amend the bill later.

At his request the hearing was continued indefinitely.

RETURNS FOR FRANCHISES.

Hearing on Bill to Require Street Railways to Compensate Cities.

A hearing was given before the committee on street railways, at the State House this morning, on the bill of Representative Casey of Boston to require street railway companies to make some return to cities and towns for the right of using their streets.

The bill provides that every company operating a street railway in this commonwealth shall cause the streets in which its railway is laid to be kept properly watered during the months of June, July and August in each year; provided that said companies shall not be required to water any portions of any streets which lie outside of the settled portion of a city or town and provided further that where two companies run their cars through the same

W. P. Cherrington was the second to appear before the committee. He had used tobacco for over 50 years, three months of which period he was addicted to cigarettes. He had investigated the theory of opium in cigarettes, and said it was absolutely false, for the simple reason that such drug-taking would incur too great expense. He said there was salt-petre in the paper about the cigarettes that was decidedly harmful to the human system. He named tobaccoists who were authorities for the statement that tobacco, especially prepared for the article, is worth as much as a pound as the ordinary cigar filler.

Cigarette tobacco is cured in a kiln, consequently the narcotic properties are dried into the weed; on the other hand, all cigar tobaccos are cured and dried in the open air, and are free from poisonous ingredients.

Mrs. Charlotte Smith told of her efforts for the past 10 years to suppress the cigarette craze, and spoke of a bill of which she was the originator, introduced into the United States Senate by Senator Blair.

She claimed there is arsenic employed in the manufacture of cigarette wrappers. The girls in the cigarette factories, who, as a rule, are non-smokers, become physical wrecks after a brief period from working in the atmosphere where there is so much of this kind of tobacco.

The Chinese, she said, are now the most dangerous dealers in cigarettes, and are the source of ruin and woe to many respectable young women. They sell a cigarette in the manufacture of which they use a Chinese bark called acca.

This is as intoxicating and as injurious as opium, and is substituted for the latter drug because it is less expensive.

P. Stahl, a cigar manufacturer and dealer, gave reasons why the paper-covered cigarette should not be sold.

L. G. Kimball of Lynn also spoke against the continuance of the traffic, and then Mr. Wardwell appeared in re-monstration.

He argued that the reputable cigarette manufacturers were pure.

He said there were ample laws covering that phase of the question, if only they were enforced.

PETITION FOR $25,000.

Hearing to Corporation of Baldwinville Hospital Cottage for Children.

The committee on public charitable institutions gave a hearing today in the old representative chamber at the State House on the petition of the trustees of the corporation of Hospital Cottage for children at Baldwinville, for an appropriation of $25,000 to be employed in the erection and care of a building.

Hon. Jonathan A. Lane of Boston, ex-Senator Blanchard and Dr. Bemis, trustees, spoke in favor of the prayer.

Mrs. Elizabeth C. Lovering made a long argument in which she pointed out the up-hill fight that has been made for the past 15 years to support the institution to the position it now occupies in charities, one of the most useful in the commonwealth. It is now distinctively a private institution with home influences.

Senator Bradford and Dr. Flood, superintendent at Baldwinville, spoke briefly in favor of the petition. There were no remonstrants.

AUDITORS ON GRADE CROSSINGS.

The committee on railroads at the State House this forenoon gave a hearing on a bill to provide for the appointment by the superior court of auditors in cases of the abolition of grade crossings, the auditor to examine and pass upon the accounts and expenditures.

land be in or outwitted, was, on motion of Mr. Berry, Dem., of Arkansas, taken up and was explained by him and by Mr. Mitchell Rep., of Oregon.

The propriety of passing such a bill without it being understood that Senators of Connecticut, Manderson Rep., of Nebraska, and Hale Rep., of Maine, the latter predicted that the bill would come back to plague Congress.

After considerable discussion the bill was passed.

The Senate, at 11:45 o'clock, proceeded to the consideration of executive business.

MRS. COWAN WEEPS.

Defendant in Murder Trial at Bangor, Me., Testifies in Her Own Behalf.

BANGOR, Me., March 1, 1895. The third day of the Cowan trial was characterized by the continued intense interest, and the court room was crowded almost to suffocation.

The cross-examination of Elias Cowan, husband of the respondent, was resumed upon the opening of the court. He testified that his wife had told him that she had bought poison and had put it in a biscuit to kill rats.

At the close of his examination the state rested, and John F. Robinson opened for the defence. His speech was long and eloquent, and he pleaded earnestly with the jury to be guided by the evidence that was presented to them, and not to believe the prisoner guilty until it had been proved to be so beyond a reasonable doubt by the government. She was as innocent as any man on the panel until she had been proven otherwise.

The prisoner, Mrs. Cowan, was the first witness for the defence. She told the story of her life. She had been married twice before she married Cowan; had three children by her first husband, all of whom were dead, as were also her first two husbands.

Mrs. Cowan was very dramatic in her testimony, and at times wept, which seemed to affect the jury somewhat.

Jonathan Knight, father of the prisoner, testified that Mrs. Cowan had treated the child as well as a child was ever treated.

Benjamin G. Parson testified that he was at the cottage at Etta when the boy was first taken sick, and that his sickness at the house was of a similar nature. He said that he was a pretty sick boy. His trouble seemed to come from something that he had eaten at the camp-ground.

The indolent fellow reputation, one cannot fail to be influenced by the fact that Mr. Crawford has unconsciously aimed to eat into the heart of typical New York society and to depict wherein love and money are opposing, and wherein underlying principles. Commonly with the acceptance of the marriage relations an author closes his eye to the history of romance that may follow, but with Katherine Lauderdale life and adventure come with the varied experience of her married life. She passes through good and evil, seeing envy standing in place of a mother's love, and the friendship of girlhood destroyed by unreasoning love, and knowing the base hardness and the revolting cruelty which the love of money can implant in an otherwise upright nature. For the good, she has strong, pure and good love; such love as can weather the storms of a lifetime. Mr. Crawford's style is both facile and felicitous. To atone for the lack of force and plot which were the bone and sinew of his earlier works there are such delightful epithetisms as "it is life that kills love—not death," and several strong scenes in which action is forced to a climax. In these latter Mr. Crawford evinces much of his old power, but the intervening pages are hardly more than snatches of conversation ingeniously arranged to emphasize varying traits of character. The novel is thoroughly artistic, is full of flashes of humor, and is a broad and wise reflection upon men and women. ("The Ralstons," by R. Marlon Crawford. In two volumes. New York: Macmillan & Co.; 16mo.)

"WINTER RESORTS."

Those who are not acquainted with "Appleton's Illustrated Hand-Book of American Winter Resorts" will find it a most valuable summary of the attractions of health resorts in the South and West. It is revised and brought up to date each year, and contains maps, illustrations and a table of railway fares, thus bringing within easy range such information as the tourist or invalid is most anxious to obtain. Another point in its favor is that the information is not of the cut-and-dried order which usually obtains in guide books; and, far from being merely descriptive, it touches upon the localities, climate and history of each place, and makes special notes of its curative atmosphere. No invalid tourist should be without a copy of this thoroughly reliable and invaluable pamphlet, which tells him where to go to renew his strength and vigor, and explains all the necessary details, like principal routes and fares. ("Appleton's Hand-Book of Winter Resorts," New York: D. Appleton & Co.; 16mo.)

"THE NATIONAL SCHOOL LIBRARY OF SONG."

Patriotic and devotional songs and folk-songs of many nations make up this tuneful volume, which is adapted for use in normal and high schools and in seminaries. The limitations of youthful voices have been carefully considered, and the volume will be found a fresh inspiration in the singing class. Its collection of folk-songs includes representative melodies from fully 30 nations, songs which have grown dear to the hearts of the people by whom they have been sung for many generations, and their value from this fact is magnified by the uniqueness and expressiveness of their musical interpretation. ("The National School Library of Song," Edited by Leo R. Lewis. Boston: Ginn & Co.; 12mo.)

DOING AWAY WITH HOT-BOXES.

(From the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette.)

Those who have travelled much by rail are more or less acquainted with the hot-box. A hot-box, as it is commonly called, really means a hot journal-bearing, or a hot journal, or both. It arises sometimes from the use of poor material in the bearing, sometimes on account of improper lubrication.

POLITENESS IN MEXICO.

A Civil Engineer's Experience While Visiting in That Country.

"For manifesting a grave and imperturbable composure in every circumstance of life give me the Mexican people," said a civil engineer to a New York Sun reporter. "Here is a case in point. A dozen years ago I was visiting Hemisfilo, the capital of Sonora, and, falling in with an old engineering comrade one afternoon, we drank not a little tepulia. Tepulia or mescal, perhaps you know is a clear white liquor distilled from the century plant, and possessing much of the taste and potency of Irish whiskey. There was a circus in town, and in the evening Johnson and I went up the street to see it. The performance did not greatly interest us and we left the show before it was half through and started down the street on our way to the hotel. The tepulia we had drunk was still animating us and inspiring a spirit of adventure. As we came opposite the great house of Dr. Monreverte, one of the graneros of Sonora, we saw perched on a stone post at the entrance of the courtyard a white turkey, and here we stopped and fell to gossipping at the weight of the bird.

SEE OBJECTED TO FOOTLIGHTS.

A roar of applause greeted Susan B. Anthony as she advanced from the wings to the front of the stage, where the footlights suddenly blazed out with all their force, lighting up to advantage her silver hair, striking face and well-formed figure. She seemed as she stood before the audience, saved in hand, a fitting leader of American womanhood, calm and commanding, and unconscious of the masculinity and aggressiveness generally supposed to be the qualities of the leaders and advocates of equal suffrage. Those who had never before seen her were impressed and fascinated, and those to whom she was familiar were delighted and charmed.

A WOMAN'S OPINION.

"If a man once staggered through a storm with cold and soaking shoes and hose, Supporting with one hand pants large, With the other ten pounds of dripping clothes, I wouldn't be more than a day, I guess, Before he'd alter his style of dress!"

HOW TO PACK FLOWERS.

To pack flowers successfully requires a certain knack and deftness which only practice can give; but still, a few hints may be of some help. The first necessity is that they shall be put in so tightly and so closely that it is not possible for them to shake about; to do this without crushing or bruising them is by no means easy. Further, the air must be excluded as much as possible, and the packed must all at keeping the stalks. All the flowers in one vase should be lifted out together and laid on the table before the packer on a soft cloth; if one as they are required, the remaining ones will probably fall out and be bruised. Ferns, foliage, rushes and grasses are first laid flat in the bottom of the basket, next come the coarser and more robust flowers, such as wall-flowers, sweet Williams, daisies, etc., arranged with the blossoms toward the outside of the basket and the stalks toward the middle. In the cavity which will then be left pack the more fragile or valuable flowers—roses, for instance—firmly wedged in round the stalks with moss.

THE FINE ARTS.

A novel feature of the second annual exhibition of the National Sculpture Society in New York next May will be an exhibition of landscape gardening after designs by Nathan F. Barrett, landscape engineer, and Thomas Hastings, architect, the flowers and plants for which will be furnished by Messrs. Pitcher & Manda of Short Hills, New Jersey. The purpose of this exhibition is to show the possibilities of combining sculpture with flowers and plants in both natural and formal gardening and in interior decoration. It is believed that the tendency will be to encourage a larger use of sculpture in the embellishment of the villas and houses of America, and to give a new and powerful impulse to the production of ideal sculpture throughout the nation.

THE COUNTRY CLUB IN NEW YORK FORMS THE LEADING FEATURE AMONG THE ILLUSTRATIONS IN THE AMERICAN ARCHITECT FOR FEB. 23.

The house was designed by McKim, Mead & White. Among the features depicted, beside the plans and elevation, are the dining room, library, reading room and smoking room. Another notable plate is the competitive design for the State House at Olympia, Washington, by Loring & Phelps of this city, which, unfortunately, arrived too late for entry in the competition. A. C.
